The Port of Abidjan, gateway to West Africa

With more than 50 million gross tonnes handled in 2025, the Port of Abidjan plays a major role in trade for Côte d'Ivoire and the wider sub-region. Its modern terminals support international trade, transit and transhipment. The modernisation of its infrastructure opens up new opportunities for economic operators and strengthens the links between the city, the port and its hinterland.

In 2028, port cities will meet in Abidjan

Abidjan will offer participants far more than a conference venue. As a major cultural crossroads of West Africa, the city invites visitors to discover its artistic scenes, music, gastronomy and vibrant neighbourhoods, all shaped by the rhythm of the Ébrié Lagoon. Its hospitality and ability to host major international events will make the stay as enriching as the professional exchanges.
